Christine's diary

I am Christine Daaé, I was born in a town near Uppsala, Sweden. I was very happy with my family made by my mom, my dad and me. When I was young my mom died, so I became very close to my dad, the only person I had. My father was Mr. Daaé, a violinist who made a living from music. We went from town to town, he played and I sang, so that we could earn a living. One day in a town, I went to the sea and my scarf flew into the sea, so a boy swam to get it out of there and thanks to that we became very good friends, he was Raoul.

My father liked Raoul, so he taught him to play the violin, and he always told us stories, many of them spoke of ghosts like the Angel of Music. My father told us that no one could sing or play an instrument well without first having listened to Angel of Music, but it was impossible to see him, you could only hear him. The Angel gave you the "power" to sing well or play an instrument well.

A few years later my father died, so I lost the sweet voice I had.
Some time later I moved to Paris.
